Yeshiva Medical School To Be For All

Yeshiva University will establish a non-sectarian medical school under Jewish auspices in the United States, it was announced in New York by Dr. Elihu Stone, chairman of the Society for the Advancement of Pre-Medical Education at Yeshiva University.

The decision to establish the medical school was arrived at by many prominent Christian and Jewish physicians, business men and educators after "a recent scientific government report established that there will be, by the present tactics of exclusion and discrimination, a shortage of 5,000 physicians in the United States by 1960," Dr. Katz said.

He did not disclose how much the project would cost, or when it would be completed, but it was stated the new school most likely would be at the present mid-town location, Amsterdam Avenue and 186th Street.

The project was formed early this year when it was learned that Yeshiva intended to set up a number of professional schools in connection with the university's current $7,500,000 academic and physical expansion drive.

"We are determined," Dr. Katz said, "that a medical school must be the first of these professional schools. Its formation was based on practical and factual decisions, emotional, religious and [illegible]"

The society held its first function, attended by 450 persons, at the Astor Hotel. Besides the speakers in[illegible] State

Calls DP Camps Worse Than Imagined

Jews of Palestine firmly intend to hold out until such time as the United Nations implements its partition decision or affords the Jews there means of self-protection, it was reported by the U. S. delegation of the United Jewish Appeal upon its arrival at La Guardia Field from a four weeks' visit to the Holy Land and the displaced persons' camps of Europe.

The group of twelve members, headed by Julius Fligelman, of Los Angeles, were also bitter over what they called the discriminatory attitude of the British, who, they complained, were permitting Arabs to move forces and arms freely into Palestine from neighboring Arab nations while blocking the Jews in every direction.

The group was part of a twenty-eight-member delegation which made the trip to study the needs of the 250,000 displaced Jews in Europe and the situation in Palestine, in connection with the United Jewish Appeal drive for $250,000,000.

Mr. Fligelman, speaking for the contingent, said the delegation had a special audience with Pope Pius XII and had been fired upon by Arab snipers as they traveled in armored cars en route to Jerusalem.

"Although the conditions in the displaced persons camps of the Jews were worse than we imagined," Mr. Fligelman said, "the people in them are more than ever determined to prepare themselves for constructive lives elsewhere." Most of them, he added, intend to [illegible]

Raise Million In Three Hours

More than a million dollars to be sent to Palestine Jews was raised in New York in three hours at an emergency conference held at the Hotel Commodore by the National Committee for Labor Palestine.

The fund, some of it in gifts of $100,000, was contributed by labor unions, Jewish organizations and individuals throughout the United States and Canada. The money was earmarked for Histadruth, the Palestine labor movement. It was described as the "second installment" of a $7,500,000 fund being raised this year for Histadruth. The first collection of $1,250,000 was made last month at a similar meeting.

Two thousand delegates adopted a resolution calling the Palestine policy enunciated last week by Warren R. Austin, American representative on the United Nations Security Council, as a "retreat."

The resolution declared: "We call upon our government to back an international police force to maintain order and enforce partition in Palestine. These two tasks are inseparable."

Representative Jacob K. Javits, Republican, of New York, told the delegates that the initial step in the Jewish fight for Palestine "must be the lifting of the American arms embargo."

"The valiant Jews of Palestine must rely on themselves and they cannot fight organized Arab armies with olive trees. They must have arms," he said.

Representative Javits was seconded by Pinhas Lubianiker, member of the executive committee of Histadruth, who arrived from Tel Aviv to address the conference.

ZOA Protests U.S. Meat Export Ban

The Zionist Organization of America protested the failure of the United States Government to set a meat export quota for Palestine at a time when a food crisis was said to be rapidly developing in that country.

Rabbi Jerome Unger, executive director of the organization, said the State Department had refused an export license to an American firm for the shipment of 2,000 cases, totaling 96,000 pounds, of kosher beef to Tel Aviv.

"At a time when the shipment of food from America to starving peoples in Europe is encouraged," Rabbi Unger said, "the unwarranted stoppage of such shipments to feed the embattled and beleaguered people of Jewish Palestine is nothing short of inhuman and monstrous."

It was learned that dollar credits were sent to the U. S. from Meco, Ltd., of Tel Aviv, for the purchase of the meat. The American export firm that was to purchase the meat applied to the Department of Commerce for an export license toward the end of January and again on February 18. It was notified each time by the food division of the Office of International Trade that there were "no first quarter meat allocations for Palestine."

In Washington it was said no allocation of meat for Palestine was made during the first quarter of 1948 because of the pressures for increasing meat supplies in

Palestine Debate Marked By Tense Atmosphere

The tensest atmosphere yet felt in international headquarters accompanied the long-awaited Palestine debate that opened on February 24, at Lake Success, N.Y., in the United Nations Security Council as disrupting crowds twice forced the Council's president to rap angrily for silence.

It was one of the rare times when every booth in the chamber was filled with cameramen and sound engineers and technical experts, and the great array of cameras jutting from the rear booths looked like the operating end of a battleship's broadside directed against the eleven diplomats highlighted against the spotlight's amber rays.

The delegates' lounge was more packed than usual. The expectant feeling was very evident there, with four gallons more than the usual quota of orange juice being drunk at the bar, plus some hard liquor not usually sought in the morning hours. Late arrivals like Dr. Abba Hillel Silver, head of the American section of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, watched his hat and coat tossed, among scores of others on a cross-bar by a harried check clerk who figured that his usual average of one coat every thirty seconds went up to four hats and coats every thirty seconds.

On two occasions — after the speeches made by Karel Lisicky of Czechoslovakia and Warren R. Austin of the United States—there was a spontaneous exodus of visitors and reporters, with no mean ado and whispering that Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton of Canada, the Council's chairman, gaveled sharply for quiet.

There was little of the order and dignity customarily found in the quiet corridors. The [illegible] departure from tradition was [illegible] further by the wail of a baby [illegible] in the Little Assembly chamber during the Korean debate, just across the hall from the Security Council. Babies are not permitted into these debating halls, but rushing guards braked in further astonishment when Mrs. Chung-cha Chung, a Korean visitor with bawling 10-month-old son Soo-Sung in her arms, tripped daintily from the hall in a flowing pink silk chugori and chima, a Korean dress that is colorfully resplendent even to United Nations guards.

Mrs. Mamela Hawranick, a French war bride from Paris who works as information clerk at the main desk, called it one of the Pressures and demands for overseas relief and resettlement of Jewish peoples are infringing on the allocations for Jewish education and community work in America, it was charged by Michael A. Stavitsky, president of the American Association for Jewish Education.

Relief Infringes

He said many Jewish fund-raising agencies in communities were curtailing funds usually set aside for education, hospitals and Jewish centers in order to meet the 1948 goal of $250,000,000 of the United Jewish Appeal, which serves three welfare, Zionist and refugee agencies.

The two-day conference of 100 members of the board of governors of the association was held in New York in the Astor Hotel. Mr. Stavitsky made his charge in a closed meeting of the national finance council of the organization. After the meeting Mr. Stavitsky said:

"We recognize the extraordinary needs overseas, in Palestine and at home for the new Americans which make up the goal of $250,000,000 being raised by the United Jewish Appeal. All of us, genuinely interested in and devoted to Jewish

Palestine Bars U.S. Money Orders

Money order service to Palestine by mail has been suspended, by the U. S., at the request of the Palestine postal administration, it was announced by Postmaster Albert Goldman.

The request for suspension was contained in a one-sentence radiogram to the Post Office Department in Washington. It gave no explanation, and the Post Office, in turn, issued the following bulletin to all postmasters:

"In accordance with the request of the Palestine postal administration, money order service between our two countries will be suspended, beginning March 1, 1948. Therefore, postmasters should decline to accept applications for money orders to be drawn for payment in Palestine after February 9, 1948."

The order will not affect transmission of funds through channels other than the mails. The American Express Company said it was continuing its service through correspondents in Jerusalem, Tel

Hadassah Maps Food Supply

In an effort to stave off possible suffering among the Jews of Palestine during the period of emergency resulting from Arab violence, nutrition experts of Hadassah, have mapped out "strategic blueprints" for the storing of food supplies and emergency feeding for the school and general population of Jerusalem and other communities in the Holy Land, it was disclosed by Mrs. Harry P. Pierst, of New York, child welfare chairman of the group.

Information on this phase of Hadassah's emergency program in Palestine was communicated in an airmail report received from its staff of workers who among other services are responsible for the feeding of 90,000 children in the grammar grades. The laying up of a two months' supply of food has been recommended and worked out for all regular schools, Yeshivot (Religious Schools) and children's institutions. In close cooperation with Vaad Leumi, the elected council of Palestine, menus and instruction on the use and care of food stocks, flexible enough to provide all necessary nutrition elements despite shortages have been prepared.

The Jerusalem Feeding Committee has arranged for all Jewish children of grammar school age to receive a meal which will be prepared in the kindergartens of

BRODKIN-KANDESTIN

The marriage of Irma Rhoda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Kandestin, 4256 Old Orchard Avenue, to Bernard Maxwell Brodkin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brodkin, 4295 St. Catherine Road, took place at Shaar Hashomayim Synagogue, on February 24, at half-past six o'clock, Rabbi Wilfred Shuchat officiating, assisted by Cantor Nathan Mendelson. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her long white dress was of Chantilly lace over satin, with a scalloped, appliqued neckline encrusted with seed pearl beads, and long, pointed sleeves, a bouffant skirt, and long train. Draped to her headdress of tulle, intertwined with lilies of-the-valley, was a fingertip-length tulle veil, and she carried a bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis. Miss Phyllis Kandestin, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, wearing a pink satin dress, designed with a tightly-fitted bodice, and full skirt. She had a white floral headdress, and carried a nosegay of white roses and carnations, with pink ribbons. Misses Phyllis and Rona Gameroff, cousins of the bride; Mary Barsky, and Glorianne Schwartz, the bridesmaids, wore dresses of heaven-blue taffeta, with fitted bodices, and full, tiered skirts. They had white floral headdresses and carried nosegays like that of the matron of honor. Leslie Brodkin, cousins of the groom, was best man; and the ushers were: Stanley Kandestin, brother of the bride; S. Steinberg, Maurice Sperber, Jack Fenster, and Saul Kugler. The decorations were of white snapdragons and white double stocks, with white boddlea arranged with palms; and the aisles were lit with big candles, in tall candelabra, the pews being marked with flowers and ribbon bows. Mrs. M. N. Finsberg played the organ. Receiving, at the synagogue Mrs. Kandestin, mother of the bride, wore a gown of off-white crepe, with sunbursts of silver and gold-shaded bugle beads, and a matching hat of tulle and flowers, and had a spray of brown orchids pinned to her handbag. Mrs. Brodkin, mother of the groom, wore a gown of drowsy-pink-shade, Grecian styled, with a tulle hat of deeper pink, and had a spray bouquet of orchids pinned to her handbag. The bride and groom left for Atlantic City, N. J., and New York, the bride travelling in a navy-blue wool-crepe bolero suit, with a pink blouse, with green snake-skin shoes and bag, and a sheared beaver coat. They will live at 4700 Clanranald Avenue.

MAYER-ETCOVITCH

The marriage of Rita, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Etcovitch, 795 Bloomfield Avenue, to Maurice Mayer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Mayer, 4471 Henri Julien Street, took place at Chevra Kadisha Synagogue, on December 14, at two o'clock, Dr. C. N. Denburg, Rabbi, officiating. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown was of white satin, with a scalloped neckline, and long, pointed sleeves, pointed over the wrists, the full marquisette skirt extending into a full train, edged with embroidered lover's knots and roses. A scalloped halo of ivory-shaded satin, trimmed with pearl beads, was draped with a long veil of illusion tulle reaching beyond the train of her gown, and she carried an old-fashioned bouquet of white carnations, centred with Sweetheart roses and streamers. Mrs. Simon Torobin, sister of the bride, as matron of honour, wore a gown of ice-blue satin, made with a gathered bodice, and an off-the-shoulder neckline of pink tulle; and a very full skirt forming into a short train. She had a matching pink tulle picture hat and long blue satin gloves, and carried a round bouquet of pink carnations. Simon Torobin was best man, and the ushers were: Jack Letovsky, Max Stein, and Fred and Milton Butterman, Allan Etcovitch, brother of the bride, and Paul Nayer, brother of the groom, were junior ushers. The Synagogue was decorated with candelabra and standards of yellow chrysanthemums and pom-poms, with ferns, also the altar and canopy posts. During the ceremony, "Because" was sung by a soloist with a choir. For the reception at the synagogue, there were large standards of yellow chrysanthemums and pom-poms, and the floral table centrepieces were designed with ferns. Mrs. Etcovitch, mother of the bride, wore a dusty-rose-shaded crepe dinner-gown, with a draped neckline, and draped skirt; and a hat of champagne-shaded tulle, with pink roses. She had matching champagne-colored gloves and an orchid corsage. Mrs. Nayer, mother of the groom, wore a grey crepe dinner-gown, with a slit neckline embroidered with crystal beads and rhinestones, long sleeves, and a full skirt. She had a hat of grey ostrich-feather tips, and an orchid corsage. The bride and groom left for New York, the bride travelling in cocoa-brown gabardine suit, with brown accessories, and a winter-white hat, and grey broadtail coat, and orchid corsage. GIFT OF $10,000 TO AID T.B. SERVICE

To aid tuberculosis sufferers coming from Europe to Palestine, the Jewish Consumptive Relief Society of Cleveland, Ohio, contributed $10,000 for the establishment of a thoracic surgery department in the Rothschild-Hadassah-University Hospital on Mount Scopus outside of Jerusalem, and will also aid in the maintenance of the new service.

Hadassah, in addition to its wing of beds to treat tuberculosis patients in its present hospital, will shortly erect a separate 200-bed institution in Palestine. People there were relatively free of tuberculosis up to the point where newcomers began arriving broken in health by suffering. Hadassah recently sent several mobile X-ray units to Palestine. In Cyprus, too, where refugees wait for release to go to Palestine, careful screening has been instituted.

Organize Parents Of U.S. Students In Palestine

The formation of a new organization known as the Association of Parents of American Students in Palestine, for the purpose of "safeguarding the interests of their sons and daughters who are students in institutions of higher learning in the Holy Land," was announced by Mrs. Selma Borowsky, of New York, president of the Association. In expressing concern for the safety and welfare of American students at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem, the Hebrew Technical Institute in Haifa and other educational institutions in Palestine, Mrs. Borowsky asserted, "Our sons and daughters are all in their majority and they insist on staying in Palestine to complete their studies."

She emphasized that the students had not requested special measures of protection on their behalf from the American Government, adding however, "but we cannot understand why their status as American citizens should be threatened if they defend themselves against violence. Such threats have been reported as emanating from the American Consulate in Jerusalem. Our sons and daughters would be very poor Americans if they did not defend themselves against lawless attacks. Many of our sons have fought in the recent war. We, their parents, are not constitutional lawyers or political experts, but we intend to do all we can to promote the welfare and safety of our children, and our Government we are sure will cooperate with us."

The establishment of the organization was taken at a meeting at Mrs. Borowsky's home, attended by more than 100 parents from New York and Brooklyn, an announcement was made that a drive [illegible]

• UNITED JEWISH APPEAL: Moshe Shertok, political chief of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, will speak on Sunday, March 7, at 8:30 p.m., in Massey Hall, on "The Truth About Palestine", reviewing the latest political developments at the United Nations Security Council sessions where he represents the Jewish Agency. Mr. Shertok, who is fifty-three years old, has been Chief of the Political Department of the Jewish Agency for Palestine since 1933, the post corresponding to that of a foreign secretary. Born in Kherson, Russia, on October 3, 1894, Shertok was eleven when his family settled in Palestine in the Arab village of Ein Siniya, near Ramallah. There he learned Arabic and began an association with the Arab people which has given him an intimate knowledge of the and their problems. In 1909 his family moved to Ahuzat Beit, which since has grown into the city of Tel Aviv. He was graduated with honors in 1913 from the first class of the Herzlia Gymnasium, the first Hebrew-language secondary school in Palestine, and enrolled as a law student in the University of Constantinopole. At the outbreak of World War I, the university was closed and Shertok, then a Turkish subject, was conscripted into the Army. He saw service at the front as a lieutenant. Returning to Palestine after the war, Shertok became secretary to the head of the Arabic Department of the Zionist Executive and served until he went to England to complete his education at the London School of Economics, from which he received his degree in 1924. Shertok is a persuasive orator in eight languages, and as a hobby he translates the English poets into Hebrew. In 1925, back in Palestine again, Shertok joined the staff of Davar, the Hebrew labor daily, as assistant editor, and was the first editor of its English language edition. In 1933, he was elected to the Executive of the Jewish Agency, and named head of its Political Department, after a brief period as the political secretary to the late Dr. Chaim Arlosoroff, head of the Arab Bureau. Although Shertok condemned the 1939 British White Paper as a "siege" of the Yishuv, from the very beginning of World War II, he led the all-out political economic and military war effort. He was more than once in Egypt, the Western Desert, Italy, and England. He was in San Francisco at the organizing meeting of the United Nations; he has been in New York, London, and Paris to present the Zionist case for a Jewish state in Palestine and to argue for the admittance into Palestine of the surviving Jews of Europe. On June 29, 1946, Shertok was arrested with other members of the Jewish Agency Executive and sent to the Latrun detention camp. He remained there until November 5 when he was released. At the Massey Hall meeting there will be no solicitation for funds. Boris Hambourg, 'cellist, will be guest artist. Gurston S. Allen, campaign chairman, will preside.

Among the organizations contributing to the total of $1,136,919 were the New York Cloakmakers' Joint Board of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, an American Federation of Labor affiliate, which gave $100,000, and the New York Amalgamated Joint Board of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, Congress of Industrial Organizations affiliate.

William Green, president of the A. F. of L., and Philip Murray president of the C.I.O., both expressed support of the partition decision of the United Nations in messages to the conference.

In a talk heard in Boston Dr. Emanuel Neumann, president of the Zionist Organization of America, asserted that the British in Palestine were giving the Arabs access to arms and equipment while denying such supplies to the Jews.

"The people of Jewish Palestine could well stand on their own, provided they had arms, weapons and equipment," he said.

Dr. Neumann addressed New England Jews, who were gathered at breakfast meetings throughout the New England Zionist District, over a special telephone hookup from New York.

The Palestine question has passed out of the realm of Zionism and anti-Zionism and resolved itself into the question "Which shall it be, oil or the United Nations," Dr. Carl Herman Voss, extension secretary of the Council Peace Union, said. Dr. Voss, who also is chairman of the executive council of the American Christian Palestine Committee, spoke at a Palestine union service in the Union Church of Bay Ridge (Presbyterian), Ridge Boulevard and Eightieth Street, Brooklyn.

education, are participating fully in our respective communities with contributions and work toward the attainment of this goal. However, we deplore the shortsightedness of those who would freeze or curtail allocations for home needs, such as Jewish education, which, at best, has been inadequately financed in the past."

A spokesman for the association, which is the national co-ordinating and service agency for Jewish education, said the situation was generally more acute in smaller communities. In New York, he said, the Jewish Education Committee, an affiliate of the national organization, receives its operating funds from the campaign of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies, which is the fund-raising organization for 116 agencies.

Appreciation For The Public Servant

Recently, a colleague of ours in the Rabbinate was tended a testimonial dinner by a group of leaders of the B'nai B'rith. There seems to be a "new look" in our communal life when we pause to say kind things of a public servant while he is still in vigour of health. For the most part, appreciation for the teacher, nurse, physician, and clergyman is a scarce article, and often when it is too late and the consecrated servant is no longer able to hear the encomium of praise.

The truth must be proclaimed that the service of the consecrated public servant can never be translated in terms of money, no matter what fine salary is paid, and in most instances, underpaid. For behold the tragedy of the teaching and preaching callings, and society's indifference to their needs for a decent standard of living! No wonder that the talented and the best-brained have in such large numbers come to desert these fields of service. And what is more painful, the sons and daughters of the best of families seem no longer to be attracted to these high callings, and of course society is the poorer. For no matter how idealistic men and women in the professions may be, they are children of a commercial age, and they are entitled the wherewithal to have lives of peace and security.

I do want to write in particular about the clergy at this time. It is but natural that I should. People imagine that the life of the preacher is an easy one. Of course, this is pure imagination. I deplore that the religious teacher who should be free to speak the word of God is often the slave of mere wills and whims than people realise. No self-respecting preacher can ever hope to satisfy a whole congregation. For when such a one strives to do this, he generally succeeds in pleasing no one, not even himself.

The conscientious, religious teacher will ever strive to be the servant of God, and not the servant of man. Alas, there are some [illegible] servers and servile sycophants in the ministry as in other [illegible] the teachers of church and synagogue [illegible] Jewish, [illegible] who dare to speak [illegible] the [illegible] the powerful, the potent personalities are [illegible] men of Israel. These men were fearless. They [illegible] not their own good. They championed truth and denounced, when the occasion warranted, priest, king, or people. The prophets had no veiled words. Their only criterion was truth. Thus, cried a prophet to a king, "Thou art the man!" Thus proclaimed the prophets, "Thus saith the Lord." We rejoice that in the Jewish and Christian ministry of our day, there are men who are worthy followers of these great teachers.

What the laity often forgets is that the clergyman is a human being. If he were an angel, he would be ministering to a heavenly congregation. The preacher who makes mistakes is the one who does things. A dead person makes no mistakes. Of course, the preacher is expected to be an example, and he is that if he espouses the word of God amid all circumstances and conditions.

Few people are aware of the minister's labours, his trials, his loneliness. The minister does not ask for pity, far from it. The minister is not indifferent to criticism if it be constructive and helpful. Yet the clergyman tries to be an idealist in the midst of all the groveling materialism around and about him. He strives to be an optimist in spite of all the pessimism about him. He instructs youths and believes and hopes that they will some day repay him by character, only to find too often that it has been "love's labour lost."

What is expected of the Rabbi in terms of religious living is in Judaism expected of every Jew. No layman has a right morally to absent himself from public worship, no more than has the Rabbi. Yet behold the laity who stay away from Sabbath worship because of being tired and what not!

Behold the fancied excuses that congregants often advance for a lack of good-will toward the clergyman. But encouraged is the minister by the splendid support and the unbounding loyalty and tender solicitude which multitudes evidence toward him. For these men and women the consecrated minister thanks God. For such glorify the name of God by seeking to be comrades through work and faith of God's servant.

(Radio address on behalf of the Canadian Appeal for Children, over Station CFCF.)

In pleading the cause of the suffering children of Europe and Asia, I am indeed bound to them by a common bond. For I belong to a people that has known more suffering than any other in all human history.

We are told that in those less civilised days, one of the rules of war understood and observed was that children are neutral. Surely, in World War II, children were the most pathetic victims of all. Do you remember the children of London, sheltering in tube stations night after night during the blitz and the flying bomb attacks? Do you remember the children of China trecking across the wide continent? Do you remember the children of Russia who joined guerilla bands and lived and fought with them at the most critical time of the struggle? And do you remember the Jewish children of Europe, the thousands who died a martyr's death? And the thousands who happily were given shelter and kept in hiding by Christian friends in homes and monasteries and thus rescued from the very jaws of death?

Thank God, the war is over, but, alas, in the war-ravaged countries of Europe and Asia today, there are millions of children orphaned and homeless, maimed and wounded, starved in body and starved in mind. They must not be left in the rubble created from hate to stalk food from garbage dumps and clothe themselves in sacking. These children and adolescents must not be deserted.

Happily, citizens of less unfortunate lands are taking part in the largest humanitarian endeavour ever conceived. Men and women with understanding and compassion have undertaken to bring relief and hope to children without hope.

Much has already been done by individual governments and agencies of the United Nations to feed the hungry and to clothe the naked. For well does the leadership of the United Nations recognize that bound up with the problem of the suffering children of the world, is the very future of world peace. If we succeed in giving security to these children and help them toward understanding, we shall have indeed established a mighty safeguard against brotherlessness and human discord, and pave the way for a peace-loving society.

Canada, as a member of the world family of nations has come to play a most significant role in world affairs. We are proud of Canada's record. We rejoice that our Dominion has volunteered to assist through the Canadian Appeal for Children, in this great humanitarian work even as have twenty-six other countries resolved to do.

I ask of you to respond to the cry of suffering children who have seen so much cruelty, violence, and death, and are children without childhood. Let your giving be an expression of thankfulness that you live in this fortunate land in your home surrounded by your own children whom God has spared from the ravages of war.

This year being leap year, by the grace of the calendar, we are granted an extra day. How wonderful it would be if we would contribute one day at least of our wages, earnings or income to the Canadian Appeal for Children. What unbounding happiness we would bring to those who languish in misery!

Knowing the generous heart of the people of Canada, I have the faith that the response to this historic appeal for children will be a worthy one and in the highest tradition of charity and compassion as taught by synagogue and church. Verily, among the pages of Israel it was taught that to answer the call of a child is itself worship of God and at times even above divine service!

The story is told that a congregation of one of the great rabbis of Poland waited for him anxiously on the holy eve of Atonement to lead them in the service. But the rabbi did not come to the synagogue. The people were alarmed. Some of the members went out to look for their rabbi. From one of the houses they heard his voice singing a children's ditty. They entered the house and found the rabbi singing to a child. "Rabbi, the people are waiting for you to start the Kol Nidre Service," they said a little reproachfully. But the rabbi replied, "When I was on my way to the synagogue I heard this child crying. I sang to him until he fell asleep. To supply the needs of children is above divine service."

YESHIVA MEDICAL

ety, Dr. Katz said, would be to enroll 100,000 members in the U. S. and to aid in the expansion of Yeshiva's pre-medical courses now being given in the university's College of Liberal Arts and Science, one of the seven divisions of the institution.

"When essential funds for the creation of a medical school are available," Dr. Katz added, "we will establish the first medical school under Jewish auspices in America. However, such an undertaking can not be speeded. It must make haste slowly."

Credit for the idea of the new school was given by Dr. Katz to Professor Shelley R. Sapbire, head of the Department of Biology at Yeshiva, and Dr. Samuel Belkin, president of the university.

"We are aware," Dr. Katz continued, "of the problems and obstacles confronting students in gaining admission to professional schools. Young men of our faith find it very difficult to be admitted to medical schools. Yet, medicine is our heritage."

the Old City. Where cooking on the premises in the schools is impossible, hot meals will be rushed to outlying sectors from the central kitchen in the Straus Health Center.

According to Hadassah's experts, an expected shortage and possible discontinuance of meat supplies is being faced by the Palestine population. This has necessitated the launching of a campaign to instruct the public in the preparation of meatless meals. A printed booklet has already been distributed through the schools to the pupils, and volunteer Hadassah teachers have prepared 20 food exhibits which will be shown throughout the country. Complete preparations have also been made to provide feeding for "refugee families" who may be asked by Haganah, the Jewish defense force, to move from exposed districts.

In addition, a list of kitchens under Hadassah supervision will serve as emergency feeding centers in twelve districts. A larger plan drawn up with the cooperation of the Jerusalem Emergency Committee has provided for the laying in of stocks required for the feeding of 6000 people and the storage of food in emergency depots. Hadassah is also providing [illegible] institutions like the Old City of Jerusalem where thousands of Jewish residents have barricaded themselves against the Arabs.

The heroism on the part of all the Jews of Palestine and especially of the teachers and social welfare workers is without parallel, Mrs. Pierat declared. "What seems to us, who live 6000 miles away like astounding heroism, is to them the normal behavior of every day life. In all the reports that have come to us, we have been moved by the dignity, determination and the lack of fear evident in every corner of the Yishuv."

Hadassah has launched an emergency campaign to secure 50% over-subscription for its projects in Palestine. These include the support of the Hadassah Medical Center which has now become a "fortress of mercy", caring for 90% of the casualties of Jerusalem and its environs; public health, sanitation and school hygiene activities; the feeding and teaching of cooking and nutrition to the majority of Palestine's school children; the training of nutrition and social welfare workers; vocational education conducted in the Brandeis Vocational Center; land reclamation through the Jewish National Fund; and the maintenance and education of Jewish refugee children brought to Palestine by the Youth Aliyah movement of which Hadassah is the official American representative.

which he called "almost wholly negative."

Rumors from Washington, he said, indicate quibbling over legal doubts which have already been dispelled by the two-thirds vote of the Security Council. Of the American statement to the Security Council he said:

"It is a position of casting doubt rather than light upon the effectiveness of any resolution of the General Assembly. It is a position that casts doubt upon the duty of member states to co-operate to carry out the resolutions of the General Assembly."

Mr. Lehman added that an international police force would prevent interference with the U. N. commission assigned to supervise partition. To say that the U. N. cannot deal with the situation, he declared, is to say that negotiation has failed, and "adjustment must be left to war."

"We respectfully urge, therefore, that our government revert to its high moral leadership of last November, and that it insist upon the implementation of the resolution with an international police force and with such other measures as may be necessary, so that the partition may be carried out in peace and stability," Mr. Lehman said.

Palestine Jews, he concluded, "are having a war thrust upon them" by Arabs who "are determined to [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] expunction of the embargo effects, and its prompt repeal.

The meeting, which was closed to the public but open to the press, was also addressed by Senator Charles Tobey, Republican, of New Hampshire. Other speakers were James G. McDonald, former member of the Anglo-American Palestine Inquiry; Clark Eichelberger, executive secretary of the sponsoring organization; Frederick C. McKee, acting president; and Dr. Carl Ross, [illegible] of the Church Peace Union.

Representatives of civic organizations, religious groups, women's clubs, labor unions and veterans organizations, all of them pledged through the Association for the United Nations to support the programs and policies of the world organization, were present. A few organizations sent observers.

Among the organizations were: American Federation of Labor, American Veterans Committee, American Women's Voluntary Services, Junior League, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Catholic War Veterans, General Federation of Women's Clubs, American Jewish Congress, Kiwanis International and Lions International.

The meeting was called to formulate a program of action in the face of the U. N. crisis over its own Palestine resolution adopted at the General Assembly session in New York in December.

PALESTINE DEBATE

worst days she had known, and flinched as she told of the sour retorts she kept getting from the Security Council's overflow visitors whom she tried to send to the Economic and Social Council.

Never before had the Council's scheduled discussion aroused so much interest, and a record-breaking number of visitors tried to get seats or standing room in the paneled chambers, says the New York Times. In the first ninety minutes of the day at least 3,000 applicants asked for tickets to the 514 seats in the public gallery, and another 500 telephone inquiries failed even to get through to the busy telephone in the admission office.

In the corridors you could talk to six delegates and get six different guesses as to Palestine's future so far as the U. N. is concerned: There will be a special session of the Assembly to reconsider on Palestine; the Soviet Union will demand troops for Palestine; partition will die from lack of impetus, like an automobile with its motor dead; Jews and Arabs will have to fight it out, with the U. N. in some way helping the Jews to arm; partition will be referred to the International Court of Justice; partition will be enforced indirectly by U. N. troops sent simply to maintain peace in the Holy Land; big-power deals are privately under way for a mysterious new solution, reports the New York Herald Tribune.

The United States position is this: that the U. N. has no legal right to enforce partition with troops, but that if the Council found a peace threat in Palestine and if the Council agreed to send troops, the troops could go to the Holy Land to enforce peace, with partition enforcement possibly resulting incidentally.

This line of peering ahead, however, is tenuous and full of obstacles; and U. N. enthusiasm for enforcing partition, directly or indirectly, is so conspicuously lacking that Jewish observers at Lake Success confess to steadily shaking hopes.

Council showed no U. N. eagerness to grapple with the partition plan which the General Assembly put on paper last November in the hope that it would take effect in Palestine without the need for enforcement.

The United States asked the United Nations Security Council to authorise the Big Five countries to begin immediately to study whether the Palestine situation is a formal threat to peace under the U. N. Chapter.

A United States resolution handed to the Council by American delegate Warren R. Austin proposed that if a Big Five committee finds a peace threat in Palestine, the fact be reported urgently to the Council along with suggested action which could be anything from a reprimand to sending U. N. troops to the Holy Land.

Although this approach was regarded by many as indirect and inadequate, the United States by introducing the resolution took a step which, if a multitude of [illegible] were surmounted, would conceivably result in a left-handed enforcement of the partition of Palestine.

PREDICTS REAL TROUBLE IN AUGUST

One of America's leading Jews charges that the United Nations, in partitioning Palestine, has probably created a self-imposed ghetto and set the stage for the Arabs to exterminate the Jews of Palestine starting next August. Writing as the president of The American Council for Judaism, Inc., Lessing J. Rosenwald, philanthropist and former board chairman of Sears, Roebuck, warns in the March 6 issue of Collier's that the Arabs are prepared to wipe out the Jews in Palestine when Great Britain withdraws its forces.

"The (current) bomb throwing, ambushed killings and arson against Jews in the Holy Land," Rosenwald says, "are but guerrilla skirmishes compared to the extermination campaign the Arab high command blatantly announces for the day when Great Britain formally withdraws its forces from there next August.

"Led by Haj Amin el Husseini, the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem and recognized top Arab gangster of Palestine, this projected program is a fearful threat," he continues. "The Mufti was an active collaborator of Hitler during the late war and is well trained in the Nazi methods of liquidation."

After asserting that he doubts the partition plan will solve the problem of the world's 11,000,000 Jews, he adds:

"On the contrary, I believe it will complicate their problem enormously. Furthermore, partition may have created what will be in effect another self-imposed ghetto, the last thing the Jews want themselves."

Rosenwald claims that by creating a separate Jewish state in Palestine, the United Nations in effect has forced the Jews of the world to decide whether they are members of a universal religion, Judaism, or adherents of Zionist nationalism with some degree of attachment and allegiance to the new state. He says Americans of the Jewish faith are "making it clear" that: "The Zionist State is not their country; it is the country of those who inhabit it. The United States of America is the only [illegible] plan for establishing a port of entry in Palestine, which had been set for February 1.

"We are of the firm conviction," he said, "that these people of the D. P. camps have earned the right to demand of us that we put aside all personal considerations to effect their release from the bondage of these camps. We feel that they are entitled to choose the place in which to make permanent homes."

In Palestine, he added, the group found itself literally [illegible] siege.

"We are forced to [illegible] and to transport any [illegible] arms they desire. The [illegible] ever, are under virtually [illegible] attack in many areas and [illegible] blocked by the British in [illegible] to bring their suffering [illegible] to Palestine and in securing the means of protection."

America.

A spokesman for the Commerce Department said the only other way meat could be sent to Palestine would be for the United States to notify the International Emergency Food Council that it would accept responsibility for shipping a certain amount of meat to that country. Once it accepts this responsibility, an allocation would be made and export licenses granted.

Rabbi Ungar said the seriousness of the meat situation in Palestine was emphasized before the United Nations Palestine Commission on Thursday by the United Nations economist John Reedman. He quoted Mr. Reedman as saying that when the British withdraw on May 15 there will be a food crisis in Palestine and that responsibility for feeding the population will be given over to the commission.

Rabbi Ungar charged the failure to make meat allocations to Palestine was a collusive action taken with British officials, who he asserted "seem to be bent upon depriving the Jewish people of Palestine not only of the necessary equipment with which to defend themselves against aggression, through the embargo on arms to Palestine, but also of the basic necessities with which to sustain their lives."

Aviv and Haifa. Banks will also continue financial transactions between the two countries through their foreign departments.

Mr. Goldman said the suspension would affect primarily small money orders mailed by Palestinians in the United States to relatives in Palestine. Between July 1 and December 31, 1947, the Post Office handled 2,823 money orders in Palestine for a total of $153,216, according to Mr. Goldman.

Last month, he added, the [illegible] York office received 1,247 [illegible] for $63,870.68. Individuals [illegible] averaged between $50 and [illegible] Mr. Goldman said.
